I hereby apply for:

- Concealed Carry Class
- Self Defense Class

Concealed Carry is the standard Concealed Carry Class to obtain a CCDW permit in the state of Kentucky. Nick Thompson who teaches the law portion is a licensed lawyer with 20+ years trial and appeals experience and an attorney that has argued criminal cases up to the US Court of Appeals. The class concentrates uses standard materials from the State of Kentucky and spends about 4 hours on the law of Justifiable Homicide and the Law of Concealed Carry. A substantial amount of the first four hours is spent viewing videos from the State of Kentucky on the law. The remaining 4 hours is spent on firearms training with a range instructor.

The Self Defense Law Class is not required to obtain or maintain a CCDW permit (Concealed Carry Deadly Weapons permit). It is offered to give a complete understanding of when where and how deadly force may be used. It explains the court process and when and how the conditions and circumstances can arise where deadly force needs to be used to protect the life of an innocent person.
